ICDS X - Provisions, contingent liabilities and contingent assets

Provision is a liability which can be measured only by using a substantial degree of estimation.

Liability is a present obligation of the person arising from past events, the settlement of which is expected to result in an outflow from the person of resources embodying economic benefits.

Contingent liability is-

- a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and the existence of which will be confirmed only by occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the person
- b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because
 - it is not reasonably certain that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; or
 - a reliable estimate of the amount of the obligation cannot be made.

Contingent asset is a possible asset that arises from past events the existence of which will be confirmed only by the occurrence or nonoccurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the person.

Executory contracts are contracts under which neither party has performed any of its obligations or both parties have partially performed their obligations to an equal extent.

Present obligation is an obligation if, based on the evidence available, its existence at the end of the previous year is considered reasonably certain.

Recognition

A. Provisions

- A provision shall be recognised when
 - a) a person has a present obligation as a result of a past event
 - b) it is reasonably certain that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation
 - c) a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation.
- If these conditions are not met, no provision shall be recognized.
- No provision shall be recognised for costs that need to be incurred to operate in the future.
- It is only those obligations arising from past events existing independently of a person's future actions, that is the future conduct of its business, that are recognised as provisions
- If details of proposed new law have yet to be finalised, an obligation arises only when the legislation is enacted.

- B. Contingent Liabilities: A person shall not recognise a contingent liability
- C. Contingent Assets: A person shall not recognise a contingent asset. Contingent assets are assessed continually and when it becomes reasonably certain that inflow of economic benefit will arise, the asset and related income are recognised in the previous year in which the change occurs ₹

Measurement: Best Estimate

- Amount recognised as a provision shall be the best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the present obligation at the end of previous year. The amount of provision shall not be discounted to its present value.
- The amount recognised as asset and related income shall be the best estimate of the value of economic benefit arising at the end of the previous year. The amount and related income shall not be discounted to its present value.

Reimbursements

- Where some or all of the expenditure is required to settle a provision is expected to be reimbursed by another party, the reimbursement shall be recognised when it is reasonably certain that reimbursement will be received if the person settles the obligation. The amount recognised for the reimbursement shall not exceed the amount of the provision.
- Where a person is not liable for payment of costs in case the third party fails to pay, no provision shall be made for those costs.
- An obligation, for which a person is jointly and severally liable, is a contingent liability to the extent that it is expected that the obligation will be settled by the other parties.

Review

- Provisions shall be reviewed at the end of each previous year and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer reasonably certain that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation, the provision should be reversed.
- An asset and related income recognised relating to contingent asset shall be reviewed at the end of each previous year and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer reasonably certain that an inflow of economic benefits will arise, the asset and related income shall be reversed.

Use of Provisions: Provision shall be used only for expenditures for which provision was originally recognised.
